

In Search for Ancient Technology

A Workshop on the Occasion of

Nava Panitz-Cohen's Birthday

September 14, 2017
at the French Research Center in Jerusalem (3 Shimshon St.)

14:00 Gathering

14:30 First session

- François Bon

Valentine Roux

Julien Vieugué
- Greetings
Clay coating and technical traditions: clues about Chalcolithic social networks
Should we oppose functional and cultural choices for explaining the variability of pottery manufacturing processes? Theoretical considerations based on ethno-archaeological case studies
- Naama Yahalom-Mack
- Crucibles and tuyères in the turn of the 1st millennium BCE; aspects of technological style
- Aren Maeir
- Technological insights on the Philistines

16:30 Coffee and cake

17:00 Second session

- Francesca Manclossi

Ariel Shatil

Amir Golani
- Dynamics of change in flint sickles of the metal ages: New insights' from a technological approach
How to make, use and break your own bone spatula
Stone jewelry molds and their technological implications during the Late Bronze to Iron Age II periods in the Southern Levant
- Debi Cassuto
- Straightening out the warped: understanding the warp-weighted loom in the southern Levant
- Amihai Mazar
- Weaving in Iron Age Tel Rehov and the Jordan Valley

19:00-21:00 Get-together and buffet

The event is organized by Valentine Roux, Amihai Mazar and Naama Yahalom-Mack and sponsored by the French Research Center in Jerusalem.

...לאחר מלחמת ששת הימים (1967)